Jordanian Premier Khalidi Threatened By Mob Action

AMMAN, JORDAN, (UP)—Moderate Premier Hussein Khalidi today warned Pro-Egyptian opposition forces that their agitation could destroy Jordan, informed sources said.

The sources said the independent premier told representatives of the "national guidance committee" that they have it in their power to wreck the country if they call threatened mass street demonstrations against his regime.

Khalidi, faced with rising pressure and a growing public outcry against the Eisenhower Doctrine, told an American newsman that James P. Richards, President Eisenhower's envoy for the Doctrine, should cancel a scheduled visit to Amman "for security and other reasons." Previously he had said he would welcome Richards' scheduled visit May 5.

Khalidi's position as Premier late tonight was unclear, despite government spokesman's denial of reports he had resigned. (Cairo radio said flatly that Khalidi had resigned.) The cabinet was meeting late tonight and scheduled another session tomorrow.

The Premier threw responsibility for the security of Jordan in the lap of the guidance committee which yesterday demanded the reinstatement of leftist Suleiman Jabulsi as Premier and formal rejection of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

A Western diplomat said in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem yesterday the Communists had hatched a plot to stage riots and demonstrations against the Eisenhower doctrine when Richards arrived.

The committee, meeting in Nabulus, focal point of Anti-Western and Pro-Egyptian feeling in Jordan, threatened to organize street demonstrations unless its demands were met. The committee is supported by the Leftist Baath (Arab resurrection), National Socialist and National Front Parties.

Khalidi, in office only a week, delivered his lecture to the committee representatives and then went to the palace to present the committee's demands to the King.

AFL-CIO Official Says Dave Beck Must Face Music

CHICAGO, April 23—(UP)—William F. Schnitzler, Secretary-Treasurer of the AFL-CIO, said today there will be no whitewash connected with the summons for Dave Beck to appear before an AFL-CIO ethical practices committee.

Schnitzler called for "stringent" punishment for anyone misusing union health and welfare funds.

He said that Beck, summoned before the committee after he invoked the Fifth Amendment and declined to answer some questions asked him by a congressional committee, must appear before the ethical practices committee and the next move will then be up to him.

Asked if he had heard anything about Beck's desiring to pull the teamsters out of the AFL-CIO, Schnitzler said he had heard that rumor along with many others.

He also said the executive council could not relieve Beck of his post as teamsters' president. That is up to the teamsters themselves, he said.

Cost of Living Increases To New High in March

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The cost of living rose to a record high in March for the seventh straight month, the government reported today. An official said food and other prices would climb still higher this month.

The rise in the Bureau of Labor statistics price index brought automatic wage increases of one to three cents an hour for 1,400,000 workers in the railroads, aircraft, electrical and other industries.

The Bureau's cost of living index rose two-tenths of one percent between February and March to 118.9 percent of average 1947-49 prices.

SENTINEL EDITOR, MANAGER APPLICATIONS DUE TODAY

Today at 5 p.m. is the deadline for submitting applications for Sentinel editor and business manager positions, according to Publications Board Chairman Kay Blaszek. Interviews will be conducted this evening at 7 p.m. in Committee Room 3 of the Lodge.

The editor receives a salary of $70 a month, and the business manager receives $40, both for eight months, Miss Blaszek said.

ASMSU Budget Submitted; Bud Wallace Reports on Pool

Business Manager Bruce Cook submitted the 1957-58 ASMSU budget to Central Board last evening, and the board also heard a report from Bud Wallace on developments concerning the proposed swimming pool. C-B suggested no changes in the budget, which will be given final Budget-Finance committee approval within the next week. It will be discussed again at Central Board's meeting next Tuesday.

Cook explained that the budget is based on an estimated activity-fee paying enrollment of 2,800 students with an activity fee of $10 per quarter.

Following are allocations by percentage and actual monetary amounts, with last year's figures in parentheses:

Athletics, 50.0, $42,000 (50.0, $37,500); accounting, 4.5, $3,780 (4.5, $3,375); Activities Board, 1.1, $924 (1.2, $900); Associated Women Students, 1.2, $1,008 (1.3, $975).

ASMSU student loan fund, 0.2, $168 (0.5, $375); band, 2.2, $1,848 (2.2, $1,650); debate and oratory, 3.2, $2,688 (3.2, $2,400); dramatics, 3.8, $3,192 (3.5, $2,625); general fund, 6.8, $5,712 (6.3, $4,725).

Intercollegiate sports, women, 0.4, $336 (0.5, $375); intramural sports, men, 2.5, $2,100 (2.2, $1,650); Montana Kaimin, 8.0, $6,720 (8.3, $6,225); Publicity-Travel, 1.4, $1,176 (1.4, $1,050); rifle team, 0.9, $756 (0.9, $675); Sentinel, 11.2, $9,408 (11.2, $8,400).

Venture Gets $1,008

Venture, 1.2, $1,008 (1.3, $975); Women's Recreational Association, 1.4, $1,176 (1.5, $1,125).

Cook recommended that the board approve for next year use of activity cards which would be issued three times a year, instead of the type now being used. The board approved his committee's recommendation.

Bud Wallace discussed specifications for a swimming pool with the board briefly, and requested another meeting next Tuesday at 7:30.

Construction cost estimates will be available soon, Wallace said. An estimate of $250,000 to $260,000 has been given.

Wallace said all main objections to previous plans have been eliminated, including an overhead timbered section.

Kay Blaszek Appointed

Central Board approved the resignation of Jim Berry, Kaimin associate editor, and the appointment of Kay Blaszek to assume the Sentinel business manager position for the remainder of the quarter.

John Fowler emphasized that Thursday is the deadline for students to apply for participation in the International Student Relations Seminar at Harvard University this summer.

It was emphasized that there is no cost for attending the seminar. Interested students should apply at the ASMSU office this evening or tomorrow evening between 4 and 6 p.m., Fowler said.

Camp Applications Are Due Friday

Leadership camp applications are due Friday, April 26, according to co-chairman Larry Pettit. Applicants may pick up forms at the Lodge main desk, he said.

Applicants may pick up forms at the Lodge main desk, he said.

Dulles to Give Canal Report

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the state department would make a progress report to the UN Security Council, possibly tomorrow or Thursday on Suez Canal negotiations with Egypt.

Dulles told a news conference he believed there should be more public knowledge about the talks on operation of the waterway. He did not suggest that the U.N. report would end U. S.-Egyptian talks or that the negotiations were deadlocked.

The Egyptian government last month proposed that the all-Egyptian Suez Canal Company operate the re-opened canal by itself. This country immediately began negotiations with Egypt in an effort to obtain some international voice in the canal's operation.

The talks have been conducted in the utmost secrecy. Officials said, however, that although some progress has been made, this country has failed to obtain all the guarantees it felt were necessary to future untroubled operation of the canal.

Two Building Additions Are Proposed

T. G. Swearingen, Director of Planning and Construction, said yesterday that there are two proposed additions to campus buildings now under consideration in his office.

One, to be used by the Natural

Science department, will be attached to the west end of the Chemistry-Pharmacy building. It will be a four story structure, with a full basement. Bids for construction will be let in either August or September.

The other, planned for the Liberal Arts Building, will be in two parts. One will be an office section of the building, and the other will be class room addition. Bids for both additions will be let next November.

Swearingen added that the new Lodge addition is expected to be ready for use in time for the National Lutheran Convention to be held here in July.

Music Education Chairman Named

Dr. Lloyd Oakland has been named chairman of the Music Education Dept. in the School of Music, Dean Luther A. Richman announced today. The appointment becomes effective in September.

250 Students Hear Candidates List Stands on Campus Issues

Candidates for the ASMSU presidency presented election platforms yesterday and answered questions from an audience of about 250 students assembled in the Lodge.

Roger Baty, Dick Riddle and Bill Williamson expressed views on issues involving Central Board, the proposed swimming pool, the student store, Judicial Council and operation of the Kaimin.

Baty, the first to speak, proposed that living groups send non-voting representatives to Central Board. He said that considering $84,000 is involved in the ASMSU budget, it would be "a good thing for students to know what's happening to it."

Pride in the campus is essential to an active student body, Baty said. MSU students should be "concerned about the campus rather than having everything spoon-fed to us from the top," he added.

The ASMSU president must be "a man of ideas," Baty said, and must be ready to suggest student activities at "unproductive moments." The president, he continued, should consider "three hours a day not too much time to ask for effective operation of the office."

Dick Riddle, who spoke next, said the election fortunately did not involve personalities, but issues. "We must enhance and add to previous ideas our own," Riddle said. He cited Judicial Council, plans for a golf course, College and Career Days and joining the National Students Association as examples of Central Board's progress in the last two years.

Riddle emphasized the need for student interest in student government. Part of his plan to bring about such interest included "keeping the (Central Board) files open" and appointing two undersecretaries to assist the ASMSU secretary.

Riddle presented the idea of MSU participating in a big-name band circuit with other schools.

Bill Williamson stated his position that ASMSU president should be "a co-ordinator only."

"I'm in favor of calling for a student vote on J-Council," Williamson said. Constant talk about the council demands a vote to determine its future, he added.

AEC Reveals New Smasher to Study Heaviest Elements

BERKELEY, CALIF., (UP)—A new type atom-smasher, designed to study the heaviest elements now known and to make atoms heavier than those already discovered, has gone into operation in the University of California Radiation Laboratory here.

The new machine was announced jointly yesterday in Washington, D.C., by the Atomic Energy Commission and by the University here.

The new atom-smasher, according to the scientists, is designed especially to accelerate the nuclei or ions of very heavy atoms and is called a heavy ion linear accelerator, or "HILAC."

The HILAC does not compete in energy with such machines as the bevatron, which accelerates protons—the nuclei of the lightest element, hydrogen, to 6.2 billion volts. The new machine is now accelerating nuclei of nitrogen atoms to energies of 140 million electron volts.

State Extension Library Offers Unique Services to U Students

By L. R. LEUSCHEN

The State Extension Library, located in a wooden frame building behind Main Hall, is probably one of the least known facilities on campus. Yet, it offers a number of unique services to University students, state conservationists and rural communities of the state.

According to Mrs. Ellen Torgimson, secretary of the State Library Extension Service, the library is a state agency. She said state libraries are usually located in the state capital, but currently neither room nor money for a separate library building in Helena is available.

The main purpose of the library is to offer a state-wide book and pamphlet-lending service to both individuals and organizations. The library, she said, is especially valuable in rural areas where library facilities are inadequate. In areas where there are no libraries the extension service offers books either through mobile book stores or by correspondence.

Children's Books

Nearly half of the library's 27,000 books are for children, Mrs. Torgimson said. The library also has materials for research in children's reading, which are available to elementary teachers attending summer school.

The library works in co-operation with state and federal conservation officials. The Forest Service, Montana State College and Eastern College of Education, Mrs. Torgimson explained, rely on the extension library for information on conservation of natural resources.

The service is further able to aid state readers by helping the organization and maintenance of local book clubs.

Inadequate appropriations has been a continual impairment to its effectiveness, Mrs. Torgimson said. In 1929 the state legislature officially designated the extension library as a working institution. However, it wasn't until February 1946 that the money was actually appropriated.

Located in Library

From 1945 until October 1955 the library was located in the MSU library. The last state legislature asked that money from state timber sales be appropriated for a new library building in the capital.

Last June the federal government helped all state library funds by allocating $40,000 to each state for library improvements. In Montana this money is being used for the cooperative purchasing and distribution of books and to build more complete reference collections in smaller libraries.

Student short-story writers who wish to gain campus fame and fortune may now submit their manuscripts for judging in the annual Stearns Award short story contest.

The best short story submitted by an undergraduate or graduate student enrolled at MSU during the three quarters of 1956-1957 will receive the $50 award.

The award was given by Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Stearns. Stearns is a 1936 graduate of the Journalism School and is publisher of the Harlowton Times. Mrs. Stearns (nee Jean Kountz) is a 1937 graduate in English.

The award, officially called the William Desmet Stearns Memorial Story award, is named in honor of the Stearns' son who was killed several years ago in a bicycle accident.

Regulations for the contest this year are:

1. Three double-spaced clean typewritten copies of each story must be submitted.

2. Any student may submit as many stories as he wishes. Stories published in Venture are eligible.

3. The stories must be from 2,500 to 10,000 words.

4. All stories must be submitted to the English office or Henry Larom by May 1.

5. Each story must be entered under an assumed name. The author's real name, with the name of the story, must be attached to the entry in a sealed envelope.

'Twelfth Night' Players Continue Rehearsals Before Spring Tour

By ANNE THOMAS

"You must slow down." "Please speak louder and more distinctly." "We'll need two rehearsals during which we assemble and take apart the sets so we'll be ready to tour."

Thus Bo Brown directs the rehearsals of the Masquers' spring production "Twelfth Night." Rehearsals are held every evening at 7:30 in Simpkins Little Theater.

They will continue in Simpkins until several nights before the show goes on tour. Then they will be held in the University Theater so that the cast may become accustomed to the larger auditorium.

The staging of a play, especially a Shakespearean play, is difficult, said Clemen M. Peck.

Peck, acting chairman of the drama department, is responsible for designing, building, transporting and erecting the sets that will appear in the Masquers' presentation of Shakespeare's comedy "Twelfth Night."

"Each new production presents a distinct challenge in lighting, costumes, makeup, and set construction," Peck said. "If it weren't so interesting I would probably be overwhelmed by the complexities and slip-ups which always threaten to occur."

Circus Going Up

Peck began building an adjustable set early in the year—a set that would fit any theater from the 18 foot stage at Big Fork to the 55 foot stage at Great Falls High School.

The sponsor in each town submits a diagram of the stage before the tour, but problems still arise. One of these problems is the height of the stage which is an important factor in the effective use of the Shakespearean forestage.

"It requires an average time of three hours to assemble the sets for each show," Peck said. "Sometimes it takes on the atmosphere of a three-ring circus going up."

"Twelfth Night" will be on tour May 3 through May 10.

250 Hear Candidates' Stands . .

Williamson said many student-faculty committees "haven't done a thing." Concerning convocations, he said, "We have a definite need for convos, but not for the bad ones."

Regarding the swimming pool, Williamson said student opinion is probably that President McFarland "was trying to throw something at us." Actually, Williamson said, Central Board is not in a position of authority to question desirability of plans proposed for the pool.

Williamson felt the bookstore should be "student operated."

During the question and answer period, the suggestion was made that candidates were avoiding the issues. A student asked, "Is the administration running the student body?"

Baty said "We've been treated like little kids because we've deserved to be treated like nothing else." Students must show initiative, he said, if they want a hand in managing their affairs.

The candidates were asked to express their viewpoints on Kaimin operation.

Riddle felt there "is something of a clash between the Kaimin staff and Central Board." He suggested Publicity Board should maintain closer contact with the Kaimin staff.

Baty's viewpoint differed considerably from this. "Although Kaimin is the representative of students in general, it should have its own right to print what it likes. If the Kaimin has reason to criticize student government, then it should be free to do so," he said.

Larry Pretty Weasel, the much-heralded basketball player from Hardin High, will probably go out of state to school, but MSU has a well substantiated reason if it doesn't offer him a scholarship.

A good basketball player, Pretty Weasel is not a student. His high school transcript is predominantly composed of C's, D's and F's. In addition, he is one and one-half credits short of being a graduating senior. The main reason for any athlete or anyone else is going to college is to further his or her education and it is doubtful if the Hardin sensation would do this.

"We have given him careful consideration," Frosty Cox said "and may still give him an offer, but we doubt his ability to make the grade scholastically." The Grizzly coach believes it would do the boy more harm than good if he came and then had to leave.

Cox is right in his thoughts and must be commended for thinking not only of producing a good basketball team, but also for thinking about the boy's future.

A four-year University athletic scholarship is $4,800 and it would be wrong to offer it to someone who may not last until graduation.

No Skyline team has contacted Pretty Weasel according to a letter received from the Hardin star. He has had offers from Rocky Mountain College, Eastern Montana College of Education, Western Montana College of Education and New Mexico A & M.

In his letter Pretty Weasel said, "I am planning very much to attend New Mexico A&M because they have a good offer not only for me, but also for Robert Littlelight, my very good friend."

This indicates he may not attend any school unless it will be a "package deal" where one or more of his friends will have to be given a scholarship in addition to his.

MSU has not completely closed the doors on the Hardin lad and is still considering him, but chances are very slim that he will receive an offer.

MSU Cindermen Face BYU Team In Saturday Meet

University cinder team will see action for the first time this year, when they meet the defending Skyline champion BYU track team Saturday.

BYU is undefeated in three meets with victories over New Mexico, Arizona, and Arizona State. The Cougars are much stronger this season and are heavy favorites to capture the Skyline crown again.

Many observers felt that last year's BYU team was the greatest in Cougar history, but Coach Clarence Robison says that his team is better than last year's.

The Grizzly cindermen are paying little attention to records, and are working hard this week in preparation for BYU.

Some impressive records were turned in by Montana in time trials last Saturday. Hank Mohland ran the high hurdles in 14.6. The conference record is 14.4.

A sure-point winner Saturday is Ron Lundquist. Lundquist threw the javelin 207 feet last Saturday.

Fiedler's Essay on Montana Labeled 'Upstart Child' By History Chairman

By LEE DE VORE

"The Montana Face", Dr. Leslie Fiedler's article in the first issue of Montana Opinion last year, was answered by Dr. Oscar J. Hammen at a meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary last week.

Dr. Hammen presented an answer to the critical Fiedler article that he had previously submitted to Montana Opinion for publication. Being refused publication, because the magazine did not wish to prolong the "affair," Dr. Hammen decided to publicly air his answer at the meeting.

The "Montana Face" that Dr. Fiedler saw after teaching at MSU eight years was first described in an essay in "Partisan Review" and then was published in Dr. Fiedler's book of essays, "An End to Innocence."

"Natives of Montana," Dr. Fiedler said, "don't see the Montana Face, though of course they can describe the Eastern Face, black, harried, neurotic. What I found seemed, at first glance, reticent, sullen, weary—full of self-sufficient stupidity; a little later later it appeared simply inarticulate," he said. "It was a face developed not for sociability or feeling, but for facing into the weather. I found a kind of innocence behind it, but an innocence difficult to distinguish from simple ignorance."

"Face" Does Exist

Dr. Hammen, in answering the article, admitted that the "Face" did exist. But he felt that it was unfair to brand it exclusive to Montana.

"I have seen it," he said, "in some cases without any evidence of being conditioned for 'facing into the weather,' in Wisconsin, Idaho, Utah, Nebraska, and New York City."

Prof. Lindstrom Publishes Article on Russ Authors

An article by Dr. Thais S. Lindstrom, "From Chapbooks to Classics" has been published in the April issue of the "American Slavic and East European Review," a Columbia University Press publication.

The article is an analysis of the creation of popular literature by writers of the eighties for the masses of the Russian people. It describes the role played by the Russian civic leader and publisher, Ivan Sytin.

Dr. Lindstrom hopes to have a biography of Ivan Sytin ready for publication in 1958.

"Like Dr. Fiedler", he continued, "I then was tempted to believe that such a 'Face' lacked a capacity to cope with the demands of complicated emotions. At least, it did not respond to any cues that I could give."

Dr. Hammen felt that the failure of the "Face" to respond was not due to ignorance, but rather to a failure of communication, not necessarily verbal.

In the foreword of his article, Dr. Fiedler stated that he was not suggesting that the record of the rest of the country was not "black"; he was merely trying to bring out the "blackness" hue on certain angles of the "Montana Face," allowing the former to appear by inference.

Dr. Hammen felt this statement to be truthfully portrayed in the controversial article. "We may assume that he never meant to suggest that 'here or nowhere' was villainy persistent, dullness immovable, and parsimony all-prevailing," he said.

Concluding his answer, Dr. Hammen said that Dr. Fiedler's article will remain as a subject of controversy.

"He cannot hide the creature in a closet because someone will insist on pulling open the door," he said. "Montana and Dr. Fiedler will have to live with the upstart child."
